To Whom It May Concern

Islam provides its followers with comprehensive guidance for personal conduct and social life. Among its teachings is a prescribed code of modest dress for both men and women. For Muslim women, this includes covering the head, hair, and neck with a headscarf (commonly known as the hijab), which is an essential part of their faith and identity.

We respectfully request that schools, workplaces, and other institutions recognize and accommodate this religious practice by allowing Muslim women to wear the hijab freely and without restriction. Such understanding fosters an environment of inclusion, dignity, and mutual respect for all faiths and backgrounds.

We thank you for your consideration and commitment to religious freedom. If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact us at (512) 850-4786 or via email at info@icbrushycreek.org

Sincerely,
